Subject: Re: My reminders

I just put in my Google calendar, from my desk top, the word "test" at 7pm to see if it would send me an email and it did…it sent me an email with the word "test"…so it worked…I use my Google calendar on my phone and want it to send me an email with what ever I input and iit does not work anymore ? Perhaps I am labeling this incorrectly as a reminder…I have always just typed in what I want to be 'reminded' of at a certain time from my calendar (be it the google calendar on my desktop or from my phone) and it sends me an email with the reminder or the appt I have made or whatever it is that is in my calendar…

I guess I am calling it the wrong thing (?) ..but regardless of what it is called, whenever I put anything in my calendar I want it to send me an email with the info I have typed in at a certain time…so yes, probably google calendar event notifications from

How are you creating reminders?
To me, reminders are an app on the iPhone that havenever sent emails — I'm thinking you mean google calendar event notifications?
