Hi Natasha...so is it possible for [REDACTED] to even leave early enough on a train from Paris to get her to the 9:31am train in Montreux on to Glion (I just want to make sure, I see this is a train on Oct. 11th. Are the trains the same time every day? She needs to go Oct. 14 to Glion)
What time would she have to leave from Paris to make a 9:31am in Montreux? Is it possible she could take a cab from Montreux to Glion? Is it close?

Ok. So you can purchase the ticket we confirmed yesterday (departing at 3:11 in the slightly higher price for better class ticket) then she must purchase her ticket on to Glion. Can you make sure she can catch a train to Glion after arriving Montreux given her timing?

Got is in writing from Rail Europe:

This is not a direct journey. The best option with the least changes of train would be to go from Paris to Geneva, then from Geneva to Montreux and from Montreux to Glion. You are able to purchase the option from Paris to Montreux on our website. However, the train from Montreux to Glion is a regional train that is only available for purchase locally at the train station.

Pricing now.
