How to save videos offline

- 1) Launch YouTube on your iPhone or iPad and start watching a video.
- 2) Pause the video, then tap the Save button.

The button resembles a downward-pointed arrow and can be found below the video player (or under the Details tab in the YouTube Gaming app).

- 3) Choose a desired video quality from the popup menu, then hit OK.

If the video is unavailable for offline playback, the button will appear disabled.

Tip: Tick the box next to “Remember my settings” if you don’t want to be asked to select video quality every time you attempt to save the video. Don’t worry, you can change this behavior at any time in YouTube’s settings.

Your video begins downloading to the device. It will remain offline for up to 30 days. If your device loses connectivity while saving a video offline, it will automatically resume as soon as it regains network connectivity.

Let me know if this isn’t working for some reason.
