Scott,

I just went through all of the rent payments you gave us and here is what I have based on the deposits for the year. Based on this I think we are still short one month rent. Can you check your outgoing checks to see if you concur with this. it gets confusing because of the delay in check but I think I have this correct. I think that the check you gave us in February of 2018 was actually for November of 2017.

For 2017 you can see all the checks given by date they are cashed.

Based on this I think we are missing Feb of 2018 at $4750. I understand all the confusion so do not worry about the late or let me know if my numbers are wrong

Also we have a check from back in October for $1000 that we never cashed. I think I told [REDACTED] not to cash it because you asked us to hold up. You latter paid October in full so I think this check should not be cashed or if it is then Feb check should only be for $3750.

For now we will deposit all but the $1000 check, and wait for you to let us know what you think
