Local Requirement

Foreign citizens visiting Russia have to be registered in the national migration service within 7 days of arrival. As a rule, your host should do this on your behalf. To do so, they may request photocopies of your passport and migration card, the white slip given to you at passport control upon entry to the country. During the 2018 World Cup (25 May 2018 – 25 July 2018), procedures in the eleven host cities will be stricter: the host should register you within 24 hours of arrival.
