we have to exchange prior to the outbound. The problem is I don't know when she might go again...I could change it to just any date, but have to pay the change fee and any difference in price...only to know we would need to change it again for the actual dates she would travel. I don't know when Jeffrey will go again...this being said, we could try to find a date in the future that has no difference in fare price and only pay the change fee...then when we really do know we will use the ticket, change it again to the new dates...once again, having to pay a change fee and any fare difference. We need an algorithm to figure out what is best!

Ok, we might still use it. How long is the frame time for exchange dates it is always a gamble.

we paid $946.38 for changeable ticket...I figured she may need to change something (happens a lot with Paris flights) I didnt think she would cancel all together. It was $888.38 for non refundable and non changeable. I paid more so we could change it.
