she'll be a great and cuddly lap dog. We'll just have to talk about some challenges that come with her smaller size. Like I mentioned before, some more juvenile qualities that she's retaining compared to other dogs of her breed. Not a big deal, but for example I'd recommend keeping her crate by your bed at night, when I usually have them sleep in a different room. She's made progress but still has some anxiety about being left alone. We'll talk more about all that once she gets up there to you!
