Friend,

This five-way primary is too close to call, based on the turnout we are seeing. Poor weather on a Tuesday in the middle of August is leading to turnout lower than the 2014 primary.

What does that mean? Every vote is going to count. The election will be decided by less than a few hundred votes—so your vote matters more than you know. And if you have already voted, please call a friend and tell them to get out to vote. Polls are open until 8PM—and when we win, we will be thanking you profusely for coming out today.

Let's make this happen!
