No. Radios in US/Canada watches are different than rest of the world. And the carriers have to support the virtual eSIM — there's no actual swappable SIM card (why no service in Russia).

Re the Apple Watches for recipients in Europe. In order for the cellular function of the Apple Watch to work properly for the Paris (Valdson, [REDACTED]) London ([REDACTED]) Edward Rod Larsen) and Moscow ([REDACTED]) recipients, we need to purchase the watches in Paris. We do not have a French cc and cannot write a check. OK to have [REDACTED] go to the Apple store in Paris when she returns to purchase the 5 watches on her credit card and wire the money to her account?

(Apple should be able to ship the watches to London from Paris, but [REDACTED] watch [REDACTED] will have to ship to her. Apple does not do business in Russia)
