

---

From: [REDACTED]
Sent: Thursday, December 22, 2011 5:36 PM
To: TOM MELNICK
Cc: LSJ
Subject: Re: Acrylic mirror for 5 Palms

OK.. can you guys pls let me know once the final plans have been decided so I know when and how to proceed with this?
thanks

On Dec 22, 2011, at 12:02 PM, TOM MELNICK wrote:

Hi [REDACTED] : I would talk to Jeff before a mirror order is placed... he is thinking about a higher elevation on the north wall parapet ( mirror wall ) .. and we may add a small roof section for cart parking along this wall ...???

On Thu, Dec 22, 2011 at 10:06 AM, [REDACTED] > wrote:

Hey guys.. I would like to get this mirror ordered for 5 Palms outside wall. Arran gave me the measurement of the wall as being 32' wide x 21' high, thus we would need 672 sq. ft of mirror. I've just spoken to someone from this company:

<http://www.dullesglassandmirror.com/glassless-mirrors-plexiglass.asp> and she told me that they can do a maximum size acrylic mirror sheet of 96"x48". They say their mirror is OK for outside application. They also sell the adhesive and J Bars for installing. The only thing that concerns me about using J Bars is that they will rust outside. I'm not sure how this should be installed? What do you think about ordering from here? Should I have them put a quote together for the amount we need?

Sorry.. this whole thing confuses me. not good in the construction side of things...