The flooring people are now going to start in 8H tomorrow! They said it will take about 4 days to complete, so I would anticipate by end of day Friday they will be done, then we can have Ion start painting on Monday We just need to sort out in the meantime if we want to use the baseboards the flooring people have.. I can show JE the photo and get his opinion.

And we need to know if Michael can take down and replace the crown molding which we would then need to choose a design. and I'm wondering if the walls would be in decent shape after taking down the molding if we even want to put anything else back up, or leave plain?
