Have you seen him today? Does he know you over slept? I just spent 45 min with him going over stuff and he didn't mention it at all to me..

After all that talk yesterday about people not being there for the boss... i go and over sleep today. I won't be surprised if he kicks me outa here today apparently he seemed unfazed by it and still in a good mood but that is besides the point.

[REDACTED] i woke up on my couch TV on lap top in my hands working on menus for tonight and tmrw phone not charged. Bottom line is i am just exhausted trying to keep up with all this stuff this week, lunch's, dinners, impromptu hors d' oeuvres partys... and then keeping after the service aspect of all of it.

i haven't received any emails or calls from him yet but i am sure i will.

do you think it would be best to send him an email first apologizing? or just wait to see what happens?

Francis
