

---

From: [REDACTED]
Sent: Monday, February 7, 2011 11:49 PM
To: Emad Hanna
Subject: Re: Customs

since most of the items are old and used, I have no idea how we would know the origin otherwise. I don't know if there is anything marked on the rug or not, or where we even got it to begin with. It's quite possible the rug was manufactured elsewhere but would have no way of knowing.

and I somehow doubt the vacuum was manufactured in the US.. I don't know what brand it is, but I know one vacuum came on the plane which was Miele, which is manufactured in Germany. did brice give you even the type of vacuum it is?

These are the vases from Crate and Barrel: <http://www.crateandbarrel.com/decorating-and-accessories/vases/short-hess-vase/s577106>

It doesn't say where they are manufactured And these are the decorative plates in the other crate and barrel box: <http://www.crateandbarrel.com/decorating-and-accessories/centerpiece-bowls/coco-centerpiece-bowl/s649760/div>
It says there are made in Italy.

On Feb 7, 2011, at 6:14 PM, Emad Hanna wrote:

Sarah,
Is there any way to find out where some of the high value items are made?

Thank you

New York, NY 10065

Cell (347) 42-8763

LSJ Office [REDACTED]

St. Thomas Office [REDACTED]

NY Office [REDACTED]

Fax [REDACTED]

<02-02-11-Personal-Items-from-71st-to-LSJ.doc>

=