

---

From: [REDACTED]
Sent: Friday, August 12, 2011 2:26 PM
To: [REDACTED]
Subject: Re: Photos

Thank [REDACTED]

very helpful. Personally, I think it makes sense to have the sofa on the back wall with no game table. I showed JE the photos and he would like to see more photos of the overall room with the couch against the back wall so he can get a better sense; photos from the corners, etc, so there is more perspective of overall room. Maybe we get a shorter couch for that room, could be an option I suppose. They sell the same couch in a 6' version. (the current one is 7') Not sure if that would make enough of a difference.

He also said we can take out the horse hair cabinet, but I know we will need something there to cover the conduit, etc. I don't know how large it is or what it looks like? Maybe we could have a box built around it which opens that could be painted the same as the walls?

JE said we don't have to worry about covering the shelves in the back of the room because his back will be to them. He said we don't even have to worry about the curtains coming all the way to the shelving on the wall because we won't see that part either when watching a movie. He doesn't seem too concerned with the way it will look when you walk in the room, as long as it makes the walls black while watching a movie so there isn't the glare off the white walls. He questioned the blackness of the fabric from the photos, but in person it looks black right? I said it was just the flash from the camera that made it look lighter.

On Aug 12, 2011, at 3:32 PM, [REDACTED] wrote:

Hi [REDACTED]

- 1 - Fabric I am suggesting
- 2 & 3 - other fabric sample which I do not think will work as well
- 5 - Back Shelving Wall Great Room - may not need to be addressed with fabric?
- 7 - Showing corner - fabric would not stop at shelving, but go right into corner - cut out area
- 9 - Showing how a rod could go right in front of shelving, sitting on moulding noting that when curtains were pulled back, you could still see the rod
- 10, 11 & 13 - Relax room with 2 matching chairs, noting door hits chair
- 14 - Space between sofa and table on back wall I do not believe we could move it any closer
- 12 - Space between side table and horsehair bookshelf
- 16 - Sofa on back wall
- 15 - Gap between chair and horsehair with sofa on back wall
- 19 - Gap between chair and wall with sofa on back wall

Please note I think the room looks very good in pictures 10 & 11 - shame about the door

Let me know what else you may need, if you could get some direction on if JE wants the back shelving wall curtained or not then I will work on fabric quantity

Warmest regards

--

LSJ,LLC

Island =anager
6100 Red Hook Quarters =uite B3
St =homas
USVI 00802

Tel: [REDACTED]

Fax: [REDACTED]

=