Restaurants:</=>

For all of these, I would go online and make a reservation from now (easier to book than cancel, rather than try and book a= the last minute).

For breakfast / brunch, the <= class="">Wolseley is an iconic place to go and is near your hotel. Strong recommendation and the wife will love it.

I would try to do dinner at Coya (Peruvian), Peyote (Mexican), Hawksmoor (Steak)

<= class="">Theatre:

=p class="MsoNormal">The theatre here is v=ry well renowned and there are always good shows playing. I am not a theatre buff so I would recommend havi=g a look here: =span style="color: black; mso-themecolor: text1" class=""><http://www.offic=allondontheatre.co.uk/> <<http://www.officiallondontheatre.co.uk/>> at what will be playing. Maybe an early dinner followed by the theatre would=be a good idea. Again, you would need to book this ahead of time.

Neighbourhoods all have their own kind=of feel. I would definitely suggest going to and walking around. These all have good places t= eat too, which may catch your eye whilst there.=/p>

N=tting Hill (Portobello road on a Saturday is good, with good places to eat all around. The wife will like this for sure)C=vent Garden

Soho

Green Park

Parks:</=>

If the weather is g=od, I highly highly recommend the parks (Hyde Park, Regents Park in particular). The number, maintenance, and size of parks here is unique and well worth going for long walk weather permitting

Museums:=/u>

Museums are many in number and in type. I would definitely recommend the Tate Gallery which is very popula=. Other than that, The National Gallery is on your doorstep in Tra=algar Square. Then you have V&A, Natural History, and Science Museums if=that's of interest.

</=>

Sites:

The London Eye is a gre=t one, a huge ferris wheel with views all over old London.

The Original London=Sightseeing Tour will take you around all the key sites if you want to see all.
