I am very sorry I didn't specifically point out this article. It has been on the internet way before I even met you. It's not like I intentionally didn't show you or was trying to hide something from you. I prefer not to dwell on these articles that have caused me extreme stress and depression. I had assumed you would have seen all the articles about me. Yes, I have done some stupid things in my past. I ever posted this photo of myself and had no idea it was even on line until this article came out. I had the photos taken off the website after I found out, but there is nothing I can do about this one in the article. (at least I don't think so. maybe I can have a lawyer contact them to request they remove it) Again, I was not trying to hide anything from you and I am sorry.
