Thank you for the couple. Was too busy to do any emails yesterday. Went to the house yesterday for 3 hours or so. It's trashed, and we lost our simple approval process, and now have to go through another approval process where we have to notify the neighbors etc. That's going to take 30 days, and we really can't do any work other than demo until then. But that's kind of a good thing, as it's giving us time to plan better etc. One big thing from yesterday that you might be happy with was because of the floor in the master being all the same level, it was a ton of work to drop the sub floor to put tile in the master bath, so I just made the call to carpet the whole thing. Think that's what you thought best in the first place. The place is a mess now, but it's gonna be great. =20
