I would love nothing more than to come and see you on Sunday. I love being with you, spending time with you, waking up next to you, going to sleep snuggled in the crock of your shoulder. However, I feel that I would be in danger of being a distraction when you need to be focused, and I would certainly try and make you late for your meeting on Monday and your meeting on Tuesday, and your dinners too...:) You know, just as you are supposed to be completely business like, your mind might wonder to me lying naked by the side of your pool??? You might try and wrap up things a little earlier etc etc god forbid such happenings.
 So, on a different note, did you buy a new set of wheels or ??
 I did get a massage which I really enjoyed and feel much more relaxed as a consequence, but that was all the spoiling I offered my self today, unless you count my flying and the hours I spent daydreaming about you who'd love to have you, and have you and have you. He's also happy to come see you in New York, and will try to get there Wed instead of Thursday. Hope you're having a good day spoiling yourself. I'm going to do the same, but mine has wheels vs.

Kisses

massages.

Just finished flying - it was a good decision not to go today. Lot's of squalls and rain showers and big big cross wind that made for a very bumpy ride. I have sticky palms!!

Found out about microbursts. Tell you about it when we speak next as it's a bit long winded
