Well I'm off to Miami. Actually the place to go is Bed. You should come to Bed to check it out. It's the new concept bar or so the blurb goes. But tonight is not a night club night but an evening of bible class followed by some signing of church hymns.

Thought you might like to know that I am flying down to Miami in a helicopter, nothing new in that you might say, except that I am the pilot! One of the tests I put my friends through is will they let me fly them?
