Still at ho=pital. When preparing to leave around 8pm (after spending 6 hours in recove=y) Lisa's Neck began to swell to the size of a tennis ball. It appears that=a blood vessel popped and was almost rushed back into the operating room to=drain blood. We were told to stay the night in a recovery room closer to th= OR in case emergency surgery was needed. Swelling slowing going down and h=pe to leave in the am.... another wonderful hospital experience...
