Heli Landing

Jeffrey,

As long as permission from land owner is given, plus the operation should not be considered reckless or endangering surrounding area in an emergency.

I found this on Helicopter forum I read, regarding Heli landing=In your backyard.

There is no easy answer to the question. It all depends on the exact location. You need to= Federal, State, Local, USFS, Zoning, etc all to line up with the stars. If you have a spot you'd like to land at, you need to start doing the research= early and make sure you don't forget any agency or possible owner before you land. Just because the land owner says it's ok, doesn't mean you won't get into serious trouble with someone else.
