Hi Jeffrey ,
I'm in NYC till mid afternoon today .
Can you talk In person or by phone?

I got great news this week re the TV show(500k for the show) but I thought that this donor was gong to fund poetry and science (poetry of earth , sea and sky) and in-classroom experiments , and they've deferred that in favor of TV

I am not going to be able to get at the edges of science with you-- I don't have the background --but there are poems that help me -- and might help others see some of those edges. Marianne Moore's poems of evolution that use metaphor to link zoologyand etymology with ethics; A.R ammons who writes poems full of physics but also delighting in the lexicons of science .

I am also working with EdLabs to test what I do and its effectiveness with kids In schools We are designing experiments to figure out how to maximize attention span , tap kids spontaneity and to raise reading comprehension

Talk more ? I would love your help on this, if we can find a project you'd like to do with me.

Lisa
