To =he person in my life that has always been there (also known as the 100%),

Sorry that this letter is delayed, I've been brainstorming what to write because there's so =uch to say. Thank you for always being there for me – regardless of what decisions I =ake, what I say, or what I do – you are the most supportive, wise, and =ind-hearted [REDACTED] I could ever imagine. You have taught me so much about myself, =bout the world, and about science and math, I'm confident that the =lace I'm in today, academically, has been greatly shaped by everything that you'=e taught me. We have made some incredible memories over the last [REDACTED] years [REDACTED] most of which have been [REDACTED] =ne of my most fond memories is from Palm Beach when I was [REDACTED] and =ou taught me how to drive a convertible and made me feel comfortable driving it by telling me that it was okay if I crashed, you could just get a new car! =rom shopping together (and you embarrassing me in front of the store =lerts), to eating ice cream and chicken fingers together, to you imparting wisdom =n me and [REDACTED] in Palm Beach, to going to Disney World together with the =irls, to playing with the big Barney costume in your NYC gym everything we do is =xceedingly fun. I'm ineffably thankful to have you in my life and can'= wait for the next [REDACTED] (and more!) years of learning, fun, and 100% support. Thanks for everything – I really mean that from the bottom of my heart, and = feel like I don't tell you enough how thankful I am for everything you do =or me.

Love always =nd forever, 100% of the time,

[REDACTED]
