More from steve:

mostly I believe it is impossible to be a new 6th operating system--yo= have to compete with windows, mac osx, Linux, android, iOS and maybe even=google chrome.

it is really hard to imagine how you create something to compete with =ll of these big, hard, fast moving projects. they are all going in differe=t directions so it isn't like adding a 4th car company in 1965.

I would side with any of those before I sided with making something fr=m scratch.
