Subject: The can't miss conference of the year...if you're into consciousness...

Hi Jeffrey!

Next weekend I'll be keynoting one of the coolest and most mindblowing conferences in the consciousness space. If you're in the Chicago area, or are free, you should definitely come. I'd love to see you there.

I attended this conference for years when it was down the road from me in Columbus, Ohio in the early to mid-90's. The topics seemed far out, but the speakers were some of the leading lights and scientists in their fields. It was truly something I looked forward to every year as a highlight. They are an amazing community.

Eventually they moved the conference to Chicago and my life picked up and moved me in many other directions, but I've always had a soft spot in my heart for them. I was absolutely thrilled when they asked me to return to their community this year to give them an address on the state of TransTech.

I've been in India for about a month conducting research, and would have absolutely stayed for another one or two if not for this conference. It is totally worth flying back half-way around the world for. If you can make it, you definitely should!
