Btw do you know anybody well that does=quantitative trading/hft? I have been thinking of trying a new type of cons=lting where the formula is roughly

"I audit your code, if I find any=hing that can be optimized I get 10% cut of the extra revenue you make than=s to the optimization"

=div id="AppleMailSignature">Technically it's not restricted to hedge fund= (eg: this would work equally well for Google and the likes) but the connec=ion between optimized code and increased revenue is probably clearer for he=ge funds, plus they have a lot of customized code so higher chances that th=y messed up something
