Subject: John Brockman

John says the dinner will be the usual same top notch scientists (the ones you met at the TED dinner) but he has not invited the =millionaires...cause he really doesn't even know if they will definitely =e in town or if they would come...he just thought is would be an =interesting idea to have you host it and then invite them..but after =hinking on it, he thinks it is too much pressure to try and swing this =nd he will just leave as is...He has the restaurant and doesn't have =he time really to make it more than what it is already. He knows you =re in Paris and for you to fly back just for this party..well, he =oesn't think it will happen and he just wants to take the pressure off.

He says he looked at the list of scientists for the event and he thinks =he list is weak. John says the event is usually quite boring and he =only intends to go to opening night.

John ask you to call him when you can
