
From: Barry J. Cohen <[REDACTED]>
Sent: Tuesday, September 19, 2017 8:04 PM
To: jeffrey E.
Subject: 000's

John Cook at EY said they would not sign a return th=t uses the 000s method. They said that there are too many footing pr=blems. Numbers won't tie to K-1s, W-2s, 1099s, etc. Also= if you only use it on part of the return, the various numbers on the return would not match internally. He also pointed ou= that this method effectively truncates numbers; though I'm not sure=what rounding rules you use. E.g., 101,499 become 101? What ha=pens to the other $499?

Joe V likes the idea of putting in 0's instead=of blanks. He says he uses "none". He did not unde=stand why this would affect the statute of limitations.

Barry J. Cohen =|

Elysium Management,=LLC |

445 Park Avenue Suite 1401

New York, NY 10022&=bsp;|

[REDACTED]