Maybe the kid was just looking for a reaction in order to have closer guidance, not only by having someone telling him but having someone teachin= him.

quite the contrary you tell the child = you dont know how to drive it takes time to learnn the kid♦=AO STEALS the car and crashes it. . you forgive him , yo= tell him his actions have consequences , but he steals =he car again, runs over some other kids , and then=whines that he doesnt know how to drive. .

I have never said that. =ou are so used in manipulating people that you constantly have to twist th=sentences your way. What I said is that you don't let a child drive a=one a car that YOU gave him and let him go faster when he doesn't know=how to drive just because he is having fun when you are aware he is going =o crash BUT you don't kick him out of the car either. You sit next to =im and you teach him how to drive by turning the steering weel if he goes =ff track and pulling the break if you need to ( you can't do that thro=gh a phone or by email).

What you have done=after giving the car to the kid is kicking him out after he drove to fast =eaving him alone with no car in the middle of the highway saying "I w=sh you well" knowing he is going to die hitted by another car.
<=div>

End of the story: the kid is obviously happy and g=ateful he received a car as a gift because without it he couldn't have=drove until where he is now. However he cannot continue the journey strand=d on a highway.
