The theory of eternal inflation does not need consciousness other than you need consciousness to come up with the theory :) On the flight now

The theory of eternal inflation resulting in infinite universes is based on this .
We hit the jackpot in the cosmic casino !

No. If you flip a coin 1,000,000 times, the fraction of heads will just be a single number (which will probably be close to but not exactly 50%). To get the fraction of heads to approach 50%, you need to flip the coin infinitely many times. (And even then, it will only happen "with probability one"!)

ask your detractors , why so many things in nature are distributed the same way, or why so many things seem to follow a POWER LAW. . ask if a power law is the EKG of the universe. they will be stumped a fun thought experiment, would be , the fact that heads and tails are equally likely , over and over again , evrywhere in the universe. is the proof of a conscious universe. it would be aware of the flips. take action so that the heads and tails are equal. .

All points noted and understood!
My one question remains

Is there anything outside of feeling thinking imagining perceiving and knowing (perceptual or cognitive experience ? ) These are modalities of consciousness, occurring in consciousness, known in consciousness and made out of consciousness.

Every name given to a perceived form , is a phenomenon. Every phenomenon arises from and subsides into formless being .

Nothingness is not an empty void but the womb of creation .

Nature goes to the same place to create a galaxy , a rose , a thought, or a beautiful woman .

Existence and awareness of existence are complementary aspects of unknowable unimaginable inconceivable being or ground of all existence.

Ps As previously noted I'm now available to meet between 1230 PM and 530 PM

Sept 16th

maybe better to distinguish between objects, perceptions and FORCES. as gravity would still exist. probability would exist. . I actually think those two things are the same. . . there is something called the central limit theorem. though we have taken the word average to mean something negative. . it appears nature's highest goal is to force a distribution that is somewhat bell shaped. men's height varies from 4 feet to 8 feet. most at 5.8 inches. . most are in the middle. . why, ? probability, instead of quantum phenomenon i suggest you start with the magic of probability, . no one knows anything. what does it mean to say 50 percent chance of rain today. . will it rain one hour on and one hour off? will it rain for 12 hours and then stop for 12 hours. , if it rains for only a few minutes, is that the same , as coming up red on the roulette wheel. we can calculate odds of heads and tails in the flip of a coin, but WHY do they eventually even out in numbers . it is separate from consciousness. . if i flipped the coin and it came up 50 heads in a row. we can calculate probability alone of the next throw is still 50/50, but the probability of all the next 50 throws being red is minuscule . NATURE pushing towards an average. . stranger than all 11 dimensions in quantum. . we see it every day, fyi, the new work says that when a computer is able to morph all the female faces in a local culture into one average. it is perceived as the most beautiful, according to surveys, . ugly means deviation from average. its is very very strange. if the universe wants things to be distributed in an average way. it would appear to force things together locally and expand on the horizon. creating an average. and hence beautiful.
