Oh, nice to hear from you. I'm doing great! I have you to thank for it. You and Boris have done an exceptional thing for me: created an opportunity for me to grow and have control over my life. I no longer have unbearable amount of stress and fear.

The attorney that Boris has recommended did a professional job. After couple years of working with her, my case was approved and last year I got my green card. The dozen of attorneys that I've visited said my case have no chance. Alas, my husband (who played crucial part) and I have recently separated because we see our present and future differently. In 3,5 years I would be eligible to apply for citizenship.

Because of your financial support and sponsoring my education at Hackreactor, I acquired practical skills: After I got my work permit, I was able to secure a job as software engineer. However, I left that startup few months ago to look for a better cultural fit. I live in Palo Alto. I'm currently preparing for technical interviews and will be applying to tech companies in a bay area soon.

There are other two exciting things that I'm working on:

1. I'm a member of [REDACTED] team and we are participating in [REDACTED]

Competition sponsored by [REDACTED]. Everyone in a team is a volunteer. I'm learning tons about how to design embedded systems. In January our team won "innovation" award from [REDACTED]. Next competition is in a month, but we don't have enough skilled people - it is going to be quite challenging.

2. I recently settled on a business idea. I'm currently in process of validating it. I think I can work during the day as a software engineer and take care of the "business" after work. It's a stepping stone in my entrepreneurial carrier. It doesn't require startup capital or skilled team members. But it requires some leg work. The idea is not new and already exists on a market but I will figure out how to be different, better and take over niche that is still for grabs. The idea is simple: massage therapists in demand with a focus on tech companies with 50-500 employees. I've spoken with some office managers/HR people who are responsible for employees' "happiness", they seem to be keen on the idea of offering massage to their employees. I'm in a process of creating web and mobile application to look credible and collect useful feedback. I have one committed male masseuse and I'm looking into how to lure female ones.

Unfortunately, I stopped traveling for [REDACTED] tournaments (or any traveling for that matter) because my budget doesn't allow it. I still have passion for the game and once I save enough, I'll resume my participation.

That is my life in a nutshell. I hope you and Boris are well and prosper :)

Thank you for reading,
