In other words, what I hear you saying—is that I deserved to be lied to because I was stupid enough to trust him.

In the fall of 2001= Enron stock was in free fall. The employees of Enron were terrified t=at they were going to lose their life savings: for many, 90+ percent of the=r 401ks and pensions were invested in Enron, as encouraged by the senior ex=ecutives of the company. Ken Lay called all of the employees together a=d reassured them, telling them that the fundamentals of the company were st=ong. He then imposed a lock-out so that none of the employees could s=ll Enron stock. What he told the employees were flat lies, but almost=all of them trusted him. You know the end of the story....

The point is that the employees probably should have known ea=lier that the company was in serious trouble, but they trusted. Shoul= they have done more to protect themselves? Yes. But he intenti=nally deprived them of the right to make their own choices based on comple= and truthful information. That was wrong. That was criminal.</=iv>

This is basically a version of the summation I gave t= the jury in 2006. I did not expect to be making it again in 2015.

Good luck with the mediation today.

I take full responsibility. I know that I was stupid and na=ve and worse. Trust me, I know that. But I never naive enough t= believe that he was going to "dump her" (his words). The only thing I=asked of him was to allow me to live in an honest and forthright way, or to=leave me alone.

I don't think that gave him=the right to lie and take advantage of my stupidity.
