I ordered a copy of one of Lispector's book from Amazon to be delivered at your address and another one to Woody and Soon Yi. Unfortunately Amazon only had used copies for the book I wanted to send you.

Noam never uses the phone. He never liked phone; by now, even less because of his hearing. But let us know next time you will be in Cambridge. It will be nice to have a chance to see you and Noam discussing these subjects again. You have, again, an interesting question.

At 0 and have spent time yesterday explaining to the group my take away that the human optic system is a better metaphor, for the language system than computer logic. in fact any of the sense systems a better metaphor. I asked whether language system as a category function to brain differentiate sense inputs. smell sight sound. bad good danger. etc many of the students came away with oh, oh, now I sort of get it.

I mean a physical address to send you the book. You have to read some of Clarice Lispector. I think you will like her insights.
