Moreno Lo=es Everything About The Octagon

The happi=st man in the world lives in Tijuana, Mexico. If the ever-presen= smile doesn't give it away, then just hearing Brandon Mor=no talk about his Saturday bout against Sergio Pettis does the t=ick. This is a 23-year-old about to face someone trained to punc= him in the face this weekend, but you wouldn't know it by=his demeanor. He might as well be going out for a day at the bea=h with his family.

"It's a lot of f=elings," he said of his first UFC main event. "I fee= pressure, I feel nervous, but the thing I feel the most is happ=ness. My last fight in Mexico was in 2012 and now I'm comi=g back to Mexico with the UFC, in the main event with a really g=od fighter like Sergio Pettis. So I'm excited."
=0AThe best part about it is the sincerity of "The Assassin=Baby." Stay in this game long enough and it's easy t= pick out the fakers from the real folks. Moreno is real, both i= the Octagon and outside of it, and it's on MMA's bi=ggest stage that he's gone from unknown to contender in les= than a year.
