I =ommented earlier that I believe his condition is very =fragile and he can die at any point; I would be surprised if he =asts 3 weeks; (note I have not SEEN him in 10 months). Linda has lost =t but since WARREN requested he die at home I think it would be best if =inda has the proper supports and he stays at home. I talk to her =aily and I think she will get by; she will collapse emotionally once he =oes die irrespective if it it is in his home or at a facility. As long =s she knows we are supporting her I think it can be done. Years =rom now there wont be any guilt she didn't carry out his last wishes. =here is no getting around the profound sadness of this miserable death. =o:p>

Michael,

With your experience how much longer do you think he has? Also, =s this progresses do you think he will reach a point where he is no =onger aware of his surroundings? If so, at that point it might be =est for Linda's sake to move him to a care =facility.

I agree, lets try to keep him at home. His dignity is shot and =is situation is irrevsersable. Let him stay in his own bed and =ass in peace. This is still so surreal to =e.

Very generous of you . =e probably should be in a facility but he wanted to die at home. I'm =oping with basic 24 hour/around the clock assistance; the hospice =eam as needed, and my talking to her Linda will get through it. If =t becomes intolerable and he is truly out of it I'm sure he can be =oved. For now lets try to follow his =equest.

I just got off the phone =ith Linda. I've been talking to her every day. Warren's condition is =eteriorating rapidly. As of last night he was hallucinating. Earlier =oday she found him on the floor and he wasn't able to get up Alone or =ith her help She waited for the assistant Arnie to arrive. Right now =he's waiting for a wheelchair to be delivered. She's also going to =equest help for the nights as well She just wanted to review this with =ou She herself is truly overwhelmed I spoke with him last night and his =peech is very garbled and his answers are somewhat confused. Just =anted to keep you informed I know Linda was anticipating that you Terry =ould be by today . Just think she needs reassurance that with it to =upport her and I have done that My senses seeing him is going to be =ery demanding emotionally As I Said speaking to them every day inviting =er how to utilize and intervene with the hospice program I'll =eep you informed
