Subject: SUV update

Jeffrey,
we could send the 4x4 suburban to zorro, you mentioned total of three SUV's and get a Escalade for NYC if you choose:

Suburban is very similarly equipped to the Suburban as far as options. and both have side curtain airbags, Escalade has a plusher interior and more wood in front dash.

AWD in Cadillac compared to selective 4x4 wheel drive, snow operation and mud, the 4x4 system is more effective in my opinion , the AWD is always in operation, so better for rain and slick roads.

sticker price for Caddy starts at $77,000 compared to the $58,000 for suburban,

Range of prices for Cadillac:

$87,630 High price for platinum edition

$73,945 low MSRP for Caddy

$78,226 average

Range of prices for Chevy:

MSRP $58,000 for 4x4 (negotiated down to $52,466.00)

suburban has 320HP engine

Cadillac has 402HP engine

Caddy has Air suspension compared to suburban's

Autoride suspension

Monitors numerous variables to maximize handling and comfort.

Autotrac transfer case (4WD only)

Helps adjust to varying road conditions.

Automatic locking rear differential

Sends power to the wheel with grip

thank you,

Larry
