Hallo kids!

Really, I don't see the point with Facebook... All it does is to let you know that everyone you ever knew have moved on and now have kids, 2.4 volvos and picket-fences... Luckily I work at [REDACTED] and none of my colleagues really like kids...

Bagdad scored the lowest on a study ranking best cities to live in. I mean, really??? Bagdad scored the lowest???

I went to mixing alumni event. After I told all Wharton and London Business School alumni that I graduated from the better business school, I don't think I'm welcome to these events anymore.

The general consensus at the alumni event was that the UAE is not great, but in these times it's the best place to be. Just work, pay your bills and suck it up until the economy turns.

It's nice and sauna-like weather now.

Cheers!
