Please dont put in emails YOUR versions of what you think I say or want. They are inaccurate most of the time. Thanks

I have a lot to study and yet again you are creating an issue out of nothing so I can't focus on anything but you. This is nothing new, you start the same fight every time I leave ( yet you insist that my trips away are good for our relationship ) Then you calm down, realize you are not thinking clearly and reassure me things will be back to normal after July.
You should not be concerned with what I would do or want until you actually make up your mind and make your final decision. And once you do, I want to make it clear that I am not coming back when you change your mind again. The tension stemming from your inability to commit to anything, even a decision, is more than I can handle

i thought that your answer to how would you like to move on with our lives, that you " wanted to find a new boyfriend to have fun with " is fine,, we can do this as great friends, with caring and reflects my feelings for you, and you for me, your nagging is more than i can handle.
