The idea stems from our conversation in your house when you were discussing that you wanted to help with long term planning and the kids etc... I told you that I want to be open kimono and that this asset exists.

This asset is ideally for Toby and the kids. G-d willing they will not need it for many years. I think that it will continue to increase in value and is better not sold as long as possible. I was not planning on selling to raise cash, but rather hold it like insurance.

If you did want to think about long term planning, it is lessened by the value of this asset.

Call me if you want to discuss.
