dear jeffrey

yes it was so great.
thank you for your visit!!

i must think about origin of signals.

but what you proposed yesterday is really a new kind of game.
i found a good mathematical description for it today.
i am really excited.

it is very different from all existing games.

m

ps:
had my first eye exam today. - ever.
it was a disaster.
need glasses.

yesterday was great fun, thanks, I think my blackboard example, gives an reason for prelife. It is not the cell that is first replicated , it is the SIGNAL. The first useful signal is expensive, as it is generated randomly. Once it show efficacy, messenger r n a like structures, copy it, at a much lower cost. copying the effective signal . makes more sense then copying the cell.
