Hey my friend, do you actually think that I am only using pablos???

No, I have several different approaches going, each will contribute a different approach, and in unison, it will have the desired approach. I can only provide excellence...

On another matter, Murray and I were exploring the most amazing new technology yesterday, which brings psychokinesis into the realm of real science! It reads your EKG and you can then move and manipulate things on a screen only using your thoughts. Murray, pablos, and I put it through some preliminary tests and we were all very impressed with the potential, especially to paralyzed patients allowing them to communicate. Murray was going to speak to hawking about it...
