Ok my mind is racing now...give me a week or so to come back to you with some thoughts/ideas around a fund. I've recently been asked to be a partner in a new fund that Michael Parekh (former top internet guru at Goldman) is founding and that Hank Greenberg is seeding. They are all over me but I didn't want to be involved unless I brought the money in (therefore had good control). They also want to bolt on my advisory business. I'd love to find a way to do something together whether its helping with your client business or putting a fund together. What you've said isn't lost on me. Thanks for the advice!
