I know and it is done by a woman called [REDACTED] that is writing those things with an ex accountant that has stolen a lot of money from MC2. I have contacted a lawyer but there is little I can do about those lies. I might sue. It costs a lot of money and as you can read it is written as allegation not facts and done in a very malicious way. The ex accountant was found guilty in court and this is her vengeance. While I am looking at legal options and also how to respond in a proper manner. I only can say that I have never have done anything in my life that I should be ashamed, people that have known me for years never had a problem working with me . That is the reality. The rest is made to hurt my reputation by adding a lie to another lie. I have to live momentarily with this bad publicity hoping that people who know me will keep trusting me. Jean luc
