At a yak nomad camp at 16,300'. Crossed a 17,400' pass yesterday to get here. Made it to our prime target. Found a cave used in 11th c., but it was 40 feet up a sand cliff face. Sent a Tibetan with ladders and ropes to verify that there was nothing in it. Am now the only living person in 500 years to be able to verify that there is nothing in the cave. Found some interesting primary source materials (books) that need to be decoded on return. This is so you. I keep thinking that I really should have had you join us. Going for a walk to find the world's most beuatiful bathroom view. Going to be looking at grazing yak against snow capped mountains. Think Pinto can match that?

Sat phone works episodically. Did a few hundred million worth of transactions from this place and am laughing at the world.

From the Far Side,
tjp
