Larry,

Sorry to be heading out at a potentially pivotal time, but so you're not caught by surprise, I need to share that I am about to depart for a week in India. Their Coast Guard is looking very seriously at the S-76 for search and rescue missions and I have to participate in those business development discussions. If all goes according to plan, I'll be back next Thursday night. In my absence, Howard will have the full support of all the same internal folks who have been supporting our discussions up until now, so hopefully, your interaction with him will be just as effective in my absence as it has been while I was here.

Thanks for your patience and engagement with us, and I look forward to catching back up following my return.
