Thought about our conversation re meditation. Actually, its not that hard. Why? A Jewish soul has a very different structure, different ingredients/components, relates to its higher levels differently, has different higher levels, relates to itself and other people in a different manner than a non jewish soul. To use repair methods/meditation on something as sensitive as a soul requires the right tools. You cant fix an Aston Martin with a Ford pick up truck tool set. With the right meditation it isnt so hard.

If you are coming to NY the week of the 22nd that is good for me. Its the off week for chemo.

All the best,

Mark
