A quick scan indicates he's not saying anything as radical as you indicated. He's saying we don't understand everything based on an individual and there can be "invisible" forces which imho is a way of saying we don't yet understand how our brains work in a scientific fashion. I am really good at guessing birth order from subtle signals. I can't always tell what they are but I'm fairly certain I'm not a mind reader. I recently really impressed someone who had 8 siblings and had talked to for five minutes.
