Thank you very much. I can pay the credit card and doctor bills now. You say you did not know...We talked about this in December already. In your words I spent 150k last year which would make 10 last less than a month. You have not wired such an amount to me in years, probably not since the year I just met you and I am not sure what you are doing. If you are having financial problems, you really don't need to give me anything, just inform me. I love you, I am here for you, money doesn't change anything and I don't need you to worry about me, just tell me how I can help. On the other hand if this is simply your attempt to control me with money, I promise you it will not work. Thank You for your financial support for the past 6 years, I appreciate it tremendously. But I find this embarrassing and I will not ask you for money again. Ever. Now that I see there is a problem, next month I can get it somewhere else. Thank you.
