Hey babe, how you doing?

Hope your well, was just thinking of our conversation a few months ago. We talked about an art work i saw in London, which had unfortunately already sold. I am now working with my friend [REDACTED] and we are helping to collect interesting art work. As you know both myself and [REDACTED] are very close to both established and up and coming artist. I don't want to give you the big sell but i would love to send you some books of artist you may know and other's to discover. Please look at them and enjoy them and come back to me with your likes and dislikes.

I'm really excited that this is what i'm now doing. [REDACTED] is an established curator and one of my oldest friends and we are looking to establish new clients. People who i would really enjoy finding wonderful artwork for and could establish a relationship with. It's fun, its one of the most exciting and crazy worlds to be mixing with, i just know you would love it.

lot's of love Jeffrey x

I'm guessing i'm going to get some cheeky reply back (looking forward to it!)
