

To: Jeffrey Epstein[jeevacation@gmail.com]
From: [REDACTED]
Sent: Fri 1/8/2010 10:22:52 PM
Subject: Fwd: Mayo Clinic Opportunity

Begin forwarded message:

From: Austin Root <[REDACTED]>
Date: January 8, 2010 3:45:26 PM EST
To: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]>
Subject: Mayo Clinic Opportunity

[REDACTED], I am in the process of narrowing it down to what I think are the best opportunities but I wanted to discuss this one first and on its own. I'm going to gather some materials for the other investments and get them to you by Monday.

Briefly, the opportunity here is with the Mayo Clinic. I'm sure you've heard of them but just in case, they are a non-profit medical practice who diagnose and treat virtually every type of illness (<http://www.mayoclinic.com/>). Kevin, the investment banker if you will, has right of first refusal on all of their intellectual property ("IP") deals. Mayo believes they have a cure for cancer which is just one of the IP investment opportunities and for obvious reasons the best one in their pipeline.

I really think because of the ongoing relationship with the Mayo Clinic to aid and commercialize their IP a face to face (or phone call) is the best way to convey the magnitude of the opportunities and to develop the relationship. Jeffrey would benefit the most by talking to Kevin about this specific transaction.

As for the other opportunities, as I said above, I'll get you the materials by next week.
Have a great weekend and I forgot to say, Happy New Year!

Regards, Austin